APOLOGIES TO CARLISLE.

Law Abiding Citizens of Covington Resent Popocratic Insults.

Covington, Ky., October 27.—The law abiding citizens of Covington called a meeting to condemn the action of the rowdies who egged and otherwise insulted Secretary Carlisle last week. Hon. Harvey Meyers, ex-Speaker of the House, presided. Addresses were made by ex-Gov. Bryan, Judge C. B. Simroll and other prominent citizens. Resolutions were passed condemning the outrage and demanding that the authorities offer a reward and take other energetic steps to discover and punish the offenders. Hon. Henry Hallman offered a resolution which censured the Yale students for their discourtesy towards Mr. Bryan. This was unanimously voted down on the ground that the meeting was not called for that purpose.

Mayor Rhinock defended the action of city authorities in not arresting the offenders, claiming that such action would have created a riot in which innocent men and women would have been the sufferers. The resolution was adopted amid enthusiastic cheers by a rising vote.

A Pathetic Appeal.

Springfield, Ill., October 27.—H. E. Truesdell, chairman of the Populist state committee, has received the following letter from the Populists of the State of Illinois: "On October 26, 1896, A. Dunning at one time editor of the National Watchman, published at Washington, D. C., prepared an appeal to the Populists of the United States, attacking good, honest Populists. This appeal is now printed and being circulated by the Republican state and county committees throughout the State of Illinois. It is intended to create a feeling of antagonism among the rank and file of our silver forces in the state. We warn every Populist and free silver voter to pay no attention whatever to this appeal, which may be sent out by so-called Populists of the Paul Vandervoort stripe. It is the work of Mark Hanna, aided by few disreputable and disgruntled Populists, who are lending their services to foster the gold standard upon the people. We request every Populist in the State of Illinois to spread this indignation and contempt any circular which may come from Populists working for the Republicans."

Populists' Vote for Bryan.

Louisville, Ky., October 27.—The middle-of-the-road Populists of the state met here yesterday and prepared an address bitterly denouncing the fusion agreement between the Populist and Democratic state central committees, which closes as follows: "Let us refuse to vote for Bryan and his New England plutocratic running mate, Arthur Sewall the national banker, non-resident and millionaire plutocrat, the Mark Hanna of the Democratic party, the personification of all that is vicious and corrupt in American politics."

Court opened at Wisconsin Tuesday, Chief Justice Peters presiding. The assignments indicate a two weeks' term.

The Best for Children.

"I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best for children I ever used. For cough it is unequalled. It is a splendid remedy for all the little ailments of childhood. I have had no more of the trouble." It has also cured many others, among them old soldiers who had contracted the disease in the army and given up all hope of recovery. For sale by Landers & Babbidge, 17 Monument Square, and H. P. S. Gould, 577 Congress St., under Congress Square Hotel.

"I had chronic diarrhoea for ten years," says L. W. Kiehl, a justice of the peace at South Easton, Pa. "No remedy afforded me real relief until I was induced by Chas. T. Kilian, the druggist, to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me and for a year I have had no return of the trouble." It has also cured many others, among them old soldiers who had contracted the disease in the army and given up all hope of recovery. For sale by Landers & Babbidge, 17 Monument Square, and H. P. S. Gould, 577 Congress St., under Congress Square Hotel.

A MUTE WITNESS.

Deaf and Dumb Girl Sees Triple Murder.

BUT IS UNABLE TO TELL ANYTHING OF THE CRIME.

Mother and Two Little Children Murdered in a Missouri Town—Children's Throat Cut and Woman's Head Mashed Out of Shape.

Richmond, Mo., October 27.—A triple murder occurred eight miles northeast of this city last night. The victims were the wife and two little children of Jesse Winner. The children were aged three and one year. Winner works in the mines at Richmond. The victims were evidently killed early last night. Their bodies were not discovered till this morning. The body of Mrs. Winner, her head mashed out of shape, was found lying in the yard in a pool of blood. The body of the older girl was found on a bed. That of the baby was on the floor under the bed. The throats of the children were cut. All around the house and in the yard were evidences of a terrible struggle. The woman evidently did not give up until the assassin had struck her a deadly blow on the head, cleaving the skull and cutting the top of the head off. There is no clue to the assassin. A little deaf and dumb girl, the child of Mrs. Winner by a former marriage, was present when the murder was committed, but is unable to tell anything of the crime.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT MEDFORD.

Fine Racing at Combination Park Yesterday Afternoon.

Medford, Mass., October 27.—A warm Indian summer-like day drew out a large gathering at Combination park today. In the sixth heat of the 255 pace, there was a conflict on the part of the drivers of Favor and Willie Hobbs, and the judges reserved their decision till tomorrow. Joe Patchen will try tomorrow to beat his record on the track. The results:

213 paces, purse $400, Robert Wilkes, blk, by Idol Wilkes, dam by a son of Lexington, (Ames), won in four heats; Prince Albert, b g by Crown Prince, dam Till, (Binney and Clark), second; Rountette, ch m, (Spear), third; best time 2:10.

ACCIDENT NARROWLY AVERTED.

Express Train on Consolidated Road Derailed.

Norwalk, Conn., October 27.—There came very near being an awful calamity at the South Norwalk drawbridge of the Consolidated road this morning between 12 and 1 o'clock.

The fast express, which makes its first stop in this city at midnight, left New York at 11 o'clock, leaving the South Norwalk train accelerated speed. The drawbridge had just been opened. This opened a switch and the train took to the sliding inclined to derail in such cases by running it into a deep bed of sand and bringing it to a standstill. In this case, however, so great was the speed that the force of stopping the engine as it ground its way into the sand, threw it down a twenty foot embankment, where it landed bottom side up. The engine and fireman jumped, and thus saved their lives. The baggage and express car did not go down the embankment. The train separated from the above two cars, and the passenger, who got off to see what was the matter, at first hardly realized the nature of the accident. No one was hurt.

BRUSSELS EXPOSITION.

American Products Will Be Well Represented On That Occasion.

Washington, October 27.—The United States commissioners to the Brussels International Exposition of 1897, acting under the direction of the State Department, have completed their plans for American participation in the affair, and have appealed to manufacturers and producers to seize the opportunity for introducing their products in foreign markets. Prof. J. H. Gore of the Columbian University of this city, appointed to the head of the commission by Secretary Olney, was the United States commissioner general at the Antwerp and Amsterdam exhibition as well as secretary of awards at Atlanta, and his wide experience is expected to make the American section at Brussels next summer creditable to the nation.

The other member, Prof. Thomas Wilson of the Smithsonian Institution, will have charge of the United States exhibit at delay. Applications for space will be received until January 1 and exhibits must be in place by April 1.

Consular Promotions.

Washington, October 27.—The President in making three appointments in consular service today followed civil service reform principles by making promotions from lower grades in each instance. The vacancy at Windsor, Ontario, was filled by the appointment of Julius Lay of the District of Columbia, vice consul at Ottawa. Samuel M. Simmes of Texas vice consul at El Paso, Texas, since 1891, is promoted consul at the same place, vice J. W. Sparks, deceased. J. F. Vails of Louisiana, who has been twenty-five years in the service, is promoted to vice consul at Mexico City, vice John B. Gorman of Georgia, deceased.

ST. DOMINIO'S COFFEE PARTY.

A Most Brilliant Party in City Hall Last Night.

The eleventh annual coffee party of St. Dominio's Conference of St. Vincent de Paul, took place at City hall last evening. It was a most brilliant gathering and included many of our well known prominent citizens. Many of the costumes of the ladies were very handsome, and a large proportion of the gentlemen were in full evening dress. The attendance was very large as has been customary for many years since on this occasion an opportunity is offered to assist a most deserving charity and contribute aid to those out of work in the inclement season of the year.

In Reception hall the tables were most attractively arranged and the ladies in charge left nothing undone for the comfort of their guests. Miss Margaret Doherty was the leading spirit and was most ably assisted by Miss Fannie Egan, Mrs. Dennis Tobin, Mrs. Wm. Deehan, Mrs. Lehan, Miss Henry, Mrs. Andrew Larkin, Mrs. Steadworthy, Mrs. Rafferty, Mrs. Murven and Miss Kliza Wall. The refreshments were profuse and delicious, and were fairly tested by the dancers during intermission, and at other times during the evening.

The music for the dancing was furnished by the Knightrville orchestra, under the able direction of Mr. Thomas Nolan. The orchestra is to be commended for their excellent playing. There were nine dances on the order embracing the grand march, and circle, quadrille "Our Lady Friends," contra, "Lady of the Lake," Lancers, quadrille, "Our Patrons," Portland fancy, contra, Hall's victory, Lancers and "Good Night" quadrille. The floor was admirably managed by Mr. Thomas H. Flaherty, with Messrs. D. Frank Wagner and John H. Dooley, assistants, and Hugh Quinn, J. J. Ward, Edward Gibbons, P. F. Foley, T. J. Wagner, George Duffy, Wm. Deehan, Jr., Frank Conley, John M. McCarthy, and Henry J. Murren.

One of the marked features of the evening was the supper of the clergy in Reception hall. Bishop Healy was out of town, but Rev. Fathers E. F. Hurley, H. H. Lee and St. Dominio's, McDonough, O'Brien, Gillilan and Collins of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, and Rev. Father O'Dowd of the Church of the Sacred Heart, now in process of erection, all sat down together and were the cynosure of many eyes.

WILL BE NO WAR.

Sensational Report on Wall Street Put Out for Stock Jobbing Purposes.

Washington, October 27.—So far as can be learned from the best sources of information, the rumors put out in circulation on Wall street today as to the probability of a warlike message from the President on Cuban affairs and a possible extra session of Congress, have no foundation in fact, and were set afloat for stock jobbing purposes only.

There have been anticipations that Spain, failing to negotiate a loan she is trying to place on the European market for further prosecution of war in Cuba, might seek to provoke some antagonism, short of actual war with the United States, in order to alter excitement at home and give a plausible reason for the failure to suppress the Cuban rebellion. This possibility, it is understood, was discussed in a cabinet meeting ten days ago. There have been no new or startling developments since, and none are expected.

Foster Nelson Captured.

Waterville, October 27.—Information is received in this city that the much wanted Foster Nelson of Clinton was captured Monday at Monson while en route to Moosehead lake, by Deputy Sheriff Nichols of Dover, who has been following him up. It is expected that the officer and prisoner will reach Skowhegan via Waterville tonight.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, ss. I, J. J. HENRY, makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & CO., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CURE OF CATARRH.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 27th day of October, A. D. 1896.

A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public, Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

THREE CLASSES OF MEN

Is the title of a neat illustrated volume I have just issued for men. It gives in plain language the effects following youthful indiscretions and later excesses as Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Drains and Losses, Vericocoe, Atrophy or undevelopment; and points out an easy and sure treatment and cure at home without Drugs or Medicines. It also explains the cause and cure of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Kidney Complaints, etc., without medicine. It is in fact a truthful resume of my thirty years wonderful success in the curing of these cases by Electric self-treatment, and every young, middle aged or old man suffering the slightest weakness should read it and know just where he stands. It is sent free, sealed, by mail upon request. Address DR. SANDEN, 326 Broadway, New York.

THE NEW APPLE CULTURE.

As Practiced in a Profitable New England Orchard.

In the new apple culture trees are planted 18 feet apart each way and cut out when they grow large enough to touch. There is no "off year" in the new culture. A New England pomologist, writing to The Rural New Yorker, tells that only two things are necessary to have trees bear every year (aside from spring frosts). These are, first, plenty of food for the trees, and second, thinning of the fruit. If the trees are relieved of from one-half to two-thirds of the fruit soon after it is set, we may be able to get more apples in bulk, which will sell at a higher price than the whole amount of fruit that sets, if left on, and without anything like the exhaustion to the tree. A tree will bear every year if it is given plenty of food and is not allowed to ripen too much seed, so that it cannot grow its full set of fruit and at the same time lay up fruit buds for another year.

Co-operation among growers of fruit is required for best results. Then cold storage houses could be built on a co-operative plan and apples held until it was thought advisable to ship them. If domestic buyers would not pay a price at which the growers thought best to sell, an agent could be sent to Europe to receive and sell the apples there. In this way the farmer would not be at the mercy of the dealer or middleman, as he now is. The foreign market is almost unlimited. Distance is rapidly giving way to time, so that American apples can be transported to more distant cities where the demand for them will increase faster than the production.

Foreign as well as home markets take more quickly to and pay a higher price for red apples than those of any other color. The choice of varieties would depend largely upon the soil and climate. But, as the matter now stands, the Baldwin is the most popular east of Ohio. There is no discount on the Baker, Hubbardston, Nonsch, Wealthy, King of Tompkins County and Hurlbut for red apples. The R. I. Greening is one of the very best for a green apple. For a late variety the English russet stands very popular, especially where it does well. In Westchester county, N. Y., it is planted very extensively and more money made from it than from any other variety. The Ben Davis has, from its large size and color, gained much reputation in the west, but for New England is not considered as profitable as for the west.

Fall Top Dressing.

In reply to the query, "Is fall top dressing wasteful?" American Cultivator says:

There is no waste in spreading fresh manure or that not composted on grass lands in the fall of the year unless they are liable to be flooded. In the first place, the fresh manure has no readily available nitrogen to be wasted in any way. Its soluble portions will be washed by rains in among the grass roots, and when spring comes, warming the soil, this manure will decompose in contact with it and be in the best position to help the grass crop. There is usually on grass land no wastage of rainwater through the soil until spring, and with no available nitrogen in the soil, none can be washed away.

It is different, however, with well rotted manure. That is largely available nitrogen, and we should not like to put that in the fall even on grass land. English experiments show considerable losses of nitrogen in analyses of water from underdrains where the land above was fall manured with nitrate of soda. Fermented manure has its nitrogen very nearly if not quite as soluble as has nitrate of soda. You can keep the pile of fresh manure under cover during the winter, mix some phosphate with it and during the winter rot it to the grass land late in winter without much danger of loss. The advantage of winter composting is that the manure will sooner begin to help the grass crop or the crops that are planted if the grass is plowed under for that purpose.

Furrowing Winter Wheat.

Where winter wheat is sown, furrows should be run through the low places and made deep enough to carry off surface water if it comes suddenly while the ground is frozen. The work should be done as soon as possible after the wheat is sown, as if the leaf has much size, the plant partly buried in cold, moist ground cannot live through the winter. This furrowing out of wheat lands is less common than it used to be, as it doubtless wrenches the reaping machines crossing the furrows. But it is better to cut the wheat in lands than to go over several square rods of land where the wheat was killed out by having water stand on it which a furrow would have carried away.

An underdrain will not always carry away water, for if the ground is frozen over it the water cannot get down to it. We have ridden the reaper often in cutting wheat on furrowed ground and never broke a machine in that way. In truth, the frost breaks down the soil, and mostly fills the furrow with fine soil, so that it is always much shallower in the spring than it was when made the previous fall.—American Cultivator.

There is nothing improbable in the report that the Sultan has notified the powers that he is engaged upon a comprehensive plan for reforms in his empire. It is an old and familiar trick of the Sultan when he is pushed into a corner to promise profusely. He does so simply because that is the easiest way to get out. The pressure of the powers upon him has increased of late, and it was necessary to do something to relieve it. Hence this comprehensive plan of reform. But like preceding plans of the kind they will never be executed unless the powers keep the screws on.

The biennial election amendment which is before the Massachusetts voters for adoption or rejection does not seem to be getting much attention from the press. Until within a few days the most prominent newspapers have said nothing about the subject and now for the most part their utterances are neither very forcible nor committal. The Boston Journal appears to be the only one on the ground that it will save money and ensure better legislation, while the Globe is opposed to it. The chances are that the amendment will be defeated.

The new version of the Parsonsfield tragedy does not diminish its enormity a particle; if anything it increases it. In Savage's story the murderer was alleged to be intoxicated at the time, and it was possible to put some of the responsibility upon bad whiskey. But according to the Palmer version the murder was deliberately planned some days before it was committed, and the only motive was to get possession of a few dollars which the old lady was supposed to have in the house. The coolness of the young assassin at the time of and subsequent to the murder surpasses what we should expect to find in men who had made crime their life business. When it is remembered that these boys are only sixteen years of age, that they are the sons of respectable people, and have been brought up in a quiet and law abiding community one is impelled to believe that the old doctrine of total depravity was not far out of the way.

A hundred orators can not travel over the country for months teaching that the rich are public enemies without inciting the ignorant and shiftless classes of the community to do with their hands what they are doing with their mouths—assaulting the rich and those who may undertake to speak in their defence. The rotten egg of Carlisle and the breaking up of the sound money meeting at Bedford, Kentucky, are the natural result of the doctrines that Bryan and his followers have been preaching for months. If a rich man is a public enemy and a conspirator against the welfare of the masses who ought to be punished but can not be because the courts are owned by him—and all these things Bryan alleges in substance—then why should not the people express their disapproval of him and his apologists in an emphatic way? If the men who are advocating the gold standard are in a plot to make the poor serfs of the rich or to destroy the republic and make America the vassal of Great Britain why should not they be hooted and hissed and an occasional rotten egg thrown at them? Since the Carlisle incident some of the Popocratic managers have been very profuse in their regrets, but what happened at Covington is the direct outgrowth of their plan of campaign, and the only wonder is that it did not happen sooner and has not happened oftener. That the cases in which Bryan's teachings have borne their legitimate fruit of assault and riot are few is a great tribute to the good sense of the people and strong evidence of their disbelief in his doctrine.

McCLELLAN'S LETTER TO LEE.

A Communication Said to Have Been Sent After Antietam.

(From the Philadelphia Press.)
At a social entertainment in honor of the Catholic Bishops in New York city every one of the distinguished rectors and Bishops spoke with great earnestness of the peril which lies in the Chicago platform. And one of these pious men, a distinguished authority of the Catholic Church of the South, expressed the opinion that there was a far greater sense of the peril which is in these new doctrines in the South than the North believes to be possible. Then this prelate told a story which was listened to with intense interest, and which he said he had received himself from Gen. Longstreet. He said that after the battle of Antietam, when Lee's army was in retreat, Gen. Longstreet received a message from Gen. Lee, urging him to call at Lee's headquarters as soon as possible. Longstreet made haste to obey the summons, and when he had greeted his superior and chatted with him for a few moments, Lee took him aside, that he might have private conversation with him. When they were thus apart from others, Gen. Lee said to him:

"Gen. Longstreet, I have this morning received a letter from Gen. McClellan. It has given me a great deal of anxiety. I have sent for you to ask you what you think of it, for I confess that I am perplexed as to my own course."

Here Gen. Lee handed the letter to Gen. Longstreet, who, after reading it, found that it contained an urgent request from Gen. McClellan for a meeting either that day or not later than the next, for discussion of a subject of the highest importance. As Gen. Longstreet handed the letter back to Gen. Lee he said to Lee: "What do you think of it?"

"I do not know what to think, and I wish you would give the subject careful consideration, and let me know tonight what your opinion is."

Gen. Longstreet asked that he might take the letter with him back to his own headquarters that he might read and re-read it and consent was given. In the afternoon, as he was reading the letter again, Gen. Toombs called upon him, and Longstreet said to him: "General, I am going to take the liberty of showing you a letter which

Gen. Lee received a few hours ago from Gen. McClellan, and to get your opinion upon it." Toombs read the letter, and then said: "There is something of the highest consequence behind that letter. My opinion is that Gen. Lee ought to see Gen. McClellan so that he may know what purpose McClellan had in mind when writing it." And Longstreet said in response: "That, too, is my opinion. Gen. Lee asked my advice, and I wasn't ready to give it, but now that I find that your opinion and mine are the same, I shall say so to Gen. Lee."

He mounted his horse immediately and rode to Gen. Lee's headquarters, and he told Lee that he had taken the liberty of showing the letter to Toombs, and had found that Toombs and he were of the same opinion, which was that Gen. Lee ought to grant McClellan's request.

Gen. Lee said: "I, too, have been thinking this matter over, and I have come to an opinion. I reason in this way: Gen. McClellan cannot want to see me in relation to an exchange of prisoners or any kindred subject. There is perfect understanding about those things. At all events he would have so suggested in his letter. If he wants to see me about the conduct of the war he proposes a discussion which neither he nor I have any right to enter upon with one another. If he wants to see me with regard to any settlement of this strife, he is assuming authority for himself and for which we do not possess. Those subjects are exclusively for the administration at Richmond and the administration at Washington. I will not see him."

Gen. Longstreet asked permission to retain the letter, and Gen. Lee consented to that. The retreat rolled miles away until Gen. Lee's army was safely entrenched upon the south bank of the Rappahannock.

This extraordinary proposition from McClellan is not referred to in McClellan's memoirs, nor in Gen. Lee's book. Longstreet intended to refer to it in his memoirs, but while writing that book, his house was destroyed by fire and many of his most valuable memoranda were lost, including this letter. Therefore Longstreet does not refer to it in his personal history. But he has told the story to his friends, among whom was the prelate who related it in this city the other evening.

Longstreet has his own idea of what McClellan had in mind, and he was satisfied that Gen. Lee was of his opinion. The battle of Antietam had been fought, and Lee had been driven south of the Potomac. It was a Union victory by reason of Lee's repulse, but it was not a full victory, because McClellan had permitted Lee to escape him. The impression which Gen. Lee had was that McClellan proposed to suggest a suspension of hostilities, and possibly to treat with Lee for the closing of the war, the only terms that McClellan would ask being the restoration of the Union. If the negotiations were disapproved by Mr. Lincoln's administration then McClellan expected to go to the people with the plea that he had made honorable propositions for ending the war upon the simple basis of the restoration of the Union, and that he had been prevented from consummating these plans by Mr. Lincoln and his Cabinet, a position which he thought would make him inevitably a powerful candidate for the succession to the Presidency. That may not have been McClellan's purpose, but it was both Gen. Lee's and Gen. Longstreet's impression that it was what he had in mind when he sought this private conference with the general of the Southern army.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

County Fair.

Neil Burgess's "New County Fair" is not a stranger to this city. The play that has made hundreds of thousands laugh and weep comes to us as an old friend, and a friend of whose merits there can be no doubt. So welcome Aunt Abby with her quaint shawl and welcome Taggs the irresponsible, welcome Otto the bashful, and Joel the jaunty, and old Hammerhead, with his grasping propensity for money. Welcome all the old favorites, not forgetting "Cold Mollie," the beautiful Kentucky thoroughbred, who wins the race on Mr. Burgess's famous mechanical race track, that keeps all the horses before the audience from start to finish. There is said to be a great deal that is new in the play this year, besides all the original features. "The New County Fair" is the pleasing attraction that Manager Tuckersbury of the Portland theatre has decided on for next Friday and Saturday, Oct. 30 and 31.

St. Stephen's Musical.

At the Second Advent church this evening the delightful concert that has been spoken of in these columns for several days past will be given at 8 o'clock. The artists participating, Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Harriet A. Shaw, Miss Alice Philbrook, with Mr. Kotschmar as accompanist, are guarantees of a most enjoyable occasion.

Church of the Messiah.

At the fair to be given at their vestry by the ladies of the Church of the Messiah on Thursday and Friday, the various booths will be under the supervision of the following ladies:

Variety booth—Mrs. Floyd, Mrs. Piche, Mrs. Brooks.

Variety booth—Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. Rockwell, Mrs. Dow, Mrs. Adams.
Candy booth—Mrs. Meserve, Edith Webber, Annie Skilling, Marjorie Meserve. Refreshments—Mrs. Potes, Mrs. Royce, Mrs. Lefavor, Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Fuller.
There will be hot dinners and suppers, fine concerts by Chandler's band and a reception Thursday afternoon for babies.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate in this county have been recorded in the Registry of Deeds:
Cape Elizabeth—Benjamin C. Miles to Alfred Roberts.
Raymond—Isabella Edwards to Orin Thurlow, $200.
Gorham—Kate P. Trickey to Elmer E. Cummings.

A Cruel Beating.

A man was brought to the police station yesterday morning charged with cruelly beating his son, a boy of 13 years of age with a square stick of maple about three quarters of an inch square and three feet long. The stick had sharp corners and the boy has cuts on his head and wrists. He had no breakfast when he made complaint to the police and Officer Fickett got him something to eat. After that he was sent to the Jackson school, where he belongs. The father was notified to appear in court this morning to answer to the charge against him.

The best heating and cooking apparatus made, sold and guaranteed by the Portland Stove Foundry Co. Atlantic Ranges and Heaters.

There will be a regular review of Amaranth Tent, Knights of the Macabees at Forrester hall, tonight at eight o'clock. There will be several candidates to take the work, after which the Sir Knights will be invited to the banquet hall to enjoy a class ball, which has been provided by a few of the Sir Knights to celebrate the first appearance of the new degree team. It is hoped that all members will be present as a good time is promised to all who attend.

Police Relief Ball.

There will doubtless be a brilliant party at City hall tonight the occasion of the Police Relief ball. The PRESS has published the programme of the admirable concert to be given by Chandler's full band under the direction of Mr. Robinson, and this concert will be followed by a long order of dances. The souvenir programmes that will be distributed during the evening will be handsomely adorned with portraits of the officers of the society, and will give a sketch of its inception and objects. There should be a hearty response to the call for the purchase of tickets, since the receipts will go towards making comfortable the families of those on whom our citizens lean for protection.

GOOD QUALITY IS GOOD ECONOMY.

It is always poor economy to buy poor goods. In order to have our food healthful as well as appetizing, we need good flavoring extracts.

are absolutely pure, therefore they are perfectly safe, and can be used equally well to flavor a dainty pudding for an infant, or substantial food for adults, and each will be perfectly satisfied with their delicious fruit flavor.

Double the Strength of Ordinary Extracts. One trial Proves their Worth.

WILL COME TO PORTLAND.

Yankee Brass Band of Salvation Army to Visit this City.

On Monday the Yankee Brass band, 17 pieces, belonging to the Salvation Army came into this port on the steamer St. Croix on their way to Eastport where they will remain for several days. They will then commence to work their way westward, visiting Bangor, Augusta, Lewiston and finally Portland on Nov. 16, 17, and 18. Ensign Gearing is in charge of the band which is a very good one.

Young Women's Christian Association Classes.

Several classes will be organized this week at the rooms of the association, 557 1-3 Congress street. Among these classes are the following: Millinery Tuesday at 7.30 p.m., under the direction of Miss Addie Clark. Those wishing to enter this class are requested to bring their own material for working.

The class in book-keeping will meet for its first lesson Thursday evening at 7.30. Miss Christine McCarthy will have charge of this class and all materials will be furnished.

A class in speed for advanced stenographers will be organized Wednesday at 7.30 p. m. This class is free to all members of the association.

One Bible class will begin its work Thursday, November 5th at 7.30 p. m. Mrs. S. R. G. Clark will direct the studies of this class. The class is open to all women whether members of the association or not.

Miss Mildred Fisher has charge of the class in harmony. Miss Fisher comes very highly recommended by Prof. Torrington of the College in Music in Toronto from which school Miss Fisher graduated. All wishing to enter this class are requested to call at the rooms for further particulars.

All these classes are given to members of the association at very low rates, and any one who wishes to join the association for the benefit of the classes, will please do so at once, as it is very desirable that all intending to enter the classes be present at the first meeting.

The First Flag.

Mr. Edward J. Skillings, of the Odd Fellows Fair committee, has received for the fair from a company in Philadelphia, (A Mund & Co.) a collection of handsome flags. With these flags comes a picture of the old house at 209 Arch street, where the first flag with 18 stars and 13 stripes was made by Mrs. John Ross in 1776, under direction of a committee of the Continental Congress.

Odd Fellows' Fair.

Mr. Walker of the entertainment committee for the Odd Fellows' fair says that the programme for the week is about completed and will include a band concert by Chandler's and the American Cadet bands; concert by the Tremont Quartette of Boston, with Mrs. Hennigan, reader, Boston Ideal Ladies' Quartette with Miss Annie Libby, harpist, Auburn Ladies' Orchestra with Emerson, humorist, Hayden Quartette with Skilling and Haleb, musical specialists, and to wind up Monday evening with a grand drill and ball by Canton Ridgley.

It is wise to buy stoves, ranges, furnaces or boilers made miles away, where you can do better in price, and quality and have a guarantee by reliable home manufacturers. Portland Stove Foundry Co.

FIRE IN A CAR.

This Caused the West Commercial Street Fire.

The alarm of fire at about 5.30 p. m., yesterday, was caused by a slight fire in a car in the Maine Central freight shed on West Commercial street. One of the freight handlers was working about the car, when the lantern exploded. In the car was a barrel of boot heels in which there was naphtha. This contributed to raise quite a blaze. Engine 3 soon had on a stream from a hydrant, and by aid of this the fire was soon extinguished. The car was being loaded with general freight for Auburn. The articles in the car were considerably damaged; but the total loss will probably not reach $100.

A BAD FALL.

Two Men Fall From the Roof of a House.

Yesterday forenoon William A. Libby, assisted by a man named Brown, were at work shingling Mr. Libby's house on Spruce street. The shingling was completed or nearly so and Mr. Libby went to the ridge pole to arrange the saddle boards. While at the highest point of the roof Mr. Libby slipped and slid rapidly down to the eaves. There he struck a light staging on which Mr. Brown was standing. The force of Mr. Libby's fall knocked the stage to pieces and both men were precipitated to the ground. There was great excitement among the neighbors for a time, for it was evident that both men were badly hurt.

As soon as medical assistance could be secured, it was ascertained that Mr. Libby had broken two ribs, cut his head and injured internally, just how much cannot yet be told. Mr. Brown's arm was broken and he suffered considerably. Both men will recover.

A LOSING BET.

How a Pittsburg Travelling Man Made a Profitable Wager With a Zealous Portland Bryanite.

One of the most ingenious bets of the season was made yesterday afternoon in a well known Portland business house; and a local follower of Bryan is $25 poorer thereby. The discussion had waxed warm, and the Portland supporter of Bryan had declared his unalterable conviction that McKinley would be defeated.

"Are you willing to bet on it?" said the Pittsburguer.

"Yes."

"Well I will wager you $25 that McKinley will carry every state in the Union but one; and I will in addition wager you $50 that he will carry that state."

"Agreed" shouted the eager Bryanite before the words were hardly out of the Pittsburguer's mouth.

So the money was produced and put up. Then the Pittsburguer was asked to name the states that he was backing McKinley to carry.

"All but Maine," said the Pittsburguer. "Then the $25 is mine," said the Bryanite.

"I will admit that it is," said the Pittsburguer, "and you may take it now. But I have wagered $50 with you that McKinley will carry the expected state, which is Maine. I will take the $50. See?"

So the Pittsburguer took the $50 while the Bryanite took on a dazed look, and the spectators began to tumble like bricks in a row.

You take no risk! You save money! Buy Atlantic Heaters, Furnaces, Ranges and parlors of the manufacturers. Portland Stove Foundry Co.

A Live Concern.

At the present day the manufacture of men's, boys and children's ready made clothing has been so systemized, so advanced by the introduction of labor saving machinery and devices, and so improved by the exercise of superior taste and skill in designing and cutting garments, that this branch of business has left others far behind in completeness and in progress. An up-to-date clothing establishment of today is far different from the old-fashioned stores of the "haul them in" shop method.

Rare energy, enterprise and persistency in the formation and execution of plans, novelty of ideas, and unremitting public announcements are essential to the success of any well conducted clothing establishment. Combined with these there must be a large and varied assortment of stylish, well-made garments, and low prices must prevail to meet the demands of active competition and stringent times. The success attained by the well-known firm of Fisk & Goff, the clothiers, located junction of Middle, Cross and Free streets, is undoubtedly due to a combination of all the factors before mentioned. Not only do they carry a large and comprehensive stock of all grades and sizes of men's, boys' and children's garments, but they have also courteous and efficient salesmen to display them to their numerous customers. It requires no prophetic gift to predict that the firm of Fisk & Goff will continue to grow in popular favor, commensurate with the methods of their goods and liberal business methods.

Refrigerator Lost Overboard.

The steamer Salacia took on a big refrigerator at Boothbay Harbor Monday to bring to this city. The refrigerator was loaded in such a way that while the steamer was rolling about in the embrace of the ocean it took a turn off the deck and plunged into the water. It was impossible to recover it.

ONE HONEST MAN.

Dear Editors: Please inform your readers that I have written to confidentially, I will mail in a signed letter the plan pursued by which I was recently restored to health and vigor, after years of suffering from Nervous Weakness, Night Sweats and weak, shrunken parts.

I have no scheme to extort money from anyone. I was robbed and swindled by the quacks until I nearly lost faith in mankind, but thank Heaven, I am now well, vigorous and strong, and anxious to make this certain means of cure known to all.

Having nothing to sell or to do, C. O. D., I want no money. Address, J. A. HARRIS, Box 324, Detroit, Mich.

BEFORE BI-METALLIC LEAGUE.

Col. Stephen W. Nickerson of Boston Delivered an Address in Congress Hall.

Col. Stephen W. Nickerson of Boston delivered an address last evening on bi-metallicism before the Portland Bi-Metallic League. The meeting was held in Congress hall and there were several hundred of Portland's prominent democrats present. Hon. Sidney Thaxter presided and introduced the speaker of the evening. Col. Nickerson dwelt upon the issues of the campaign at great length, and was frequently applauded. He roundly scored the money power and told how it has hindered the commercial progress and prosperity of this country. Among other things Col. Nickerson paid his respects to the American press in general and the Portland PRESS in particular. He said that some people were determined not to learn anything about the silver question and those who were thus bound to remain in ignorance daily read the Portland PRESS, and no other paper. This statement was loudly applauded.

"NOW I'LL KILL YOU."

William Parks' Murderous Assault On His Wife.

FIRED FOUR SHOTS AT HER ON MIDDLE STREET.

Did It Because He Was Jealous—She Was Going to Boston by Boat and Intended to Leave Him for Good—He Bought a Revolver for the Express Purpose of Committing Murder.

"Now I'll kill you!" This is what William Parks said to his wife at a quarter to seven o'clock last night as they stood in front of Arey's restaurant at the corner of Franklin and Middle streets. Mrs. Parks saw her husband draw a revolver from his pocket, and crying "Help! help! murder!" in agonizing tones, the terrified woman broke away from his grasp and started to run down Middle street, screaming with all the power of her lungs. Parks stepped quickly to the curb stone, covered the fleeing woman with his revolver and fired. "Bang!" went the pistol, and although the living target Parks had aimed at was only a few feet away, the woman continued to run.

"Bang! bang! bang!" Three more shots in rapid succession followed, but none of them reached Parks' intended victim, and strange to say, although many people were walking up Middle street at the time Parks was firing, no one was injured. Meantime Officers Pillsbury and Madden on their way to the Grand Trunk, had heard the woman's screams for help and were hastening towards the scene. It was one time, at least, when a policeman was right on deck and just where he was needed. Mrs. Parks passed the officers in her wild flight for safety just as the last shot was fired by her husband and she ran into Donovan's barber shop, where, overcome by fright, she collapsed into a chair.

Parks saw the officers running towards him and seemed to realize that he was caught. With an oath he threw the revolver, of which one chamber remained loaded into the middle of the street and waited for the officers to come up. Surrounded by a crowd of excited men and boys Parks made no attempt to escape. He folded his arms and when the officers reached him, quietly submitted to arrest.

By this time over 200 people were crowded about the officers and their prisoner and the police found some difficulty in getting Parks to the patrol wagon on box.

"I meant to kill her," said Parks, "but the revolver would not carry straight. Had I killed her I would have blown my brains out with the last shot."

Parks also told the officers that he had bought the weapon, a .38 calibre, five-chambered revolver, the day before, to kill his wife with. One of the officers now went back to Donovan's barber shop to get Mrs. Parks and just as the wagon came rattling down Franklin street, the woman and the officer reached the patrol box. Up to this time Parks had remained perfectly quiet and had made the officers no trouble. The moment that he saw his wife, however, he made a desperate attempt to get at her and acted like a crazy man. He called the woman all of the vile names one could think of and raged and fought so hard, swearing he would kill her that Officers Pillsbury and Madden had hard work to put the irons on him and hold him.

Mrs. Parks was terribly afraid of her husband and refused to go to the police station in the patrol wagon unless both officers, besides Turnkey Emory, went with her in the wagon to protect her from Parks. Even with the two officers holding him and with his hands ironed, Parks fought like a wild man in the wagon to get at his wife, but after he was looked up in the cell room at the station he quieted down a little and appeared more rational. Again and again he told the officers he intended to kill his wife and cursed the revolver and himself because he had failed to do so. Mrs. Parks was looked up in the lodging room and only when she was told that her husband was behind the stone walls and iron bars of a cell did she feel at all safe. This morning Parks will appear in the municipal court on the charge of assault with intent to kill.

JEALOUSY WAS THE CAUSE.

Parks was jealous of his wife and lately has often said he would kill her if he got a chance. The couple have been married about two years, but have no children. Mrs. Parks before her marriage was Lizzie McGovern. Parks is about 38 years old, and a laborer. He has worked for different people in this city, but lately he has been at work on a farm in Yarmouth. Mr. and Mrs. Parks found married life was not conducive to their happiness and separated about a year ago. Since that time Parks has been out of the city a great deal, at work on farms in and around Yarmouth, and his wife has been working in several restaurants in this city as a waitress.

She is a comely woman of about 30 years old, very stylish in dress and figure. The last place she worked was at McGovern's restaurant on Pearl street.

A few days ago Parks lost his job in Yarmouth and came here to seek his wife. He had several interviews with her but she refused to live with him and said she did not want him to bother her again. Parks swore vengeance and swore he would kill her. The woman laughed at him and Parks went away plotting murder.

In some way Parks learned that his wife had been keeping company with other men during his absence and this only added fuel to the fire of anger which was now raging in his heart. But the man had no money or very little of it, and it is believed he borrowed the money from some one to purchase the revolver with which he attempted to kill Mrs. Parks last night.

Yesterday Mrs. Parks, either because she feared her husband would attempt to injure her or for some other reason known to herself, decided to go to Boston where she had been offered a place as a waitress in a restaurant. She was to go by boat, so she told the police last night, but kept the fact of her departure a secret as far as possible so that Parks would not hear of it. But he did hear of it about 5 o'clock. Just after Mrs. Parks had left her house and had started for the Boston boat. With the revolver tightly clutched in his hand and with his finger nervously playing about the trigger guard, the jealous husband, his wrath and passions heated to the boiling point by several drinks of poor whiskey, hurried down to the boat. But there was a big crowd on the wharf and the infuriated man could not find his wife at once. While he was looking for her in the crowd, the quick eyes of the woman saw him and she changed her plans at once. It would be safer she thought to go to Boston by train after all and giving her husband the slip in the crowd she managed to get off the wharf unseen and hurried with a friend named Fannie Cameron, up to Arey's restaurant on Middle street. She believed her husband could not find her there and was eating her supper when the door opened, and Parks, with his blood-shot eyes and dishevelled hair walked into the place.

"Come out here, I want to talk with you," said he, taking his wife by the shoulder while his other grasped the revolver in his pocket.

"What do you want with me?" asked the woman.

"Come out here," with an oath, "or you'll be sorry."

She went with him to the sidewalk to avoid a scene and no sooner had the door closed behind them than Parks said: "Now, I'm going to kill you."

The man under arrest for this attempted murder has figured once or twice in the municipal court for intoxication, and while he has never attempted any violence he has always been looked upon as a bad man. The shooting affray caused the greatest excitement on Middle street, and when a reporter visited the spot about an hour after it had occurred groups of Hebrews, Italians, Armenians and people of other nationalities stood about on the street corner in picturesque attire telling one another all about it and how it had occurred.

OLD TIME CAMP FIRE

At Bosworth Post's Hall Was Largely Attended Last Evening.

Bosworth Post, G. A. R., held a jolly campfire last evening, which has largely attended. One of those famous suppers for which the Bosworth Post is famous was served and after the cigars and pipes were lighted the invited guests and the members of the post adjourned to the hall above where a pleasant evening was spent in speech making, story telling and the singing of the old war time songs. Commander E. O. Milliken, presided, and introduced each speaker in his usual happy and witty manner. Those who spoke were Hon. M. P. Frank, Rev. Dwight Galloupe, Justice Thomas P. Haskell of the Supreme bench of Maine, Col. Chas. P. Mattocks, Hon. E. C. Sweet, Col. Robert Whitcomb, Isaiah Daniels, City Auditor Leroy Sanborn, ex-Commander Leroy Tobie, Richard. Gatley, Esq., and others. The Apollo quartette furnished excellent music during the evening.

Shepley Camp Campfire.

The second of the series of fall and winter campfires held by Shepley Camp No. 4, Sons of Veterans, was held last evening at the close of the regular meeting, and was well attended, and much interest manifested. During the evening a committee was announced to arrange for the November campfire, which will be held Tuesday, November 17th, on the night of the annual inspection.

The camp will be inspected by Assistant Inspector A. R. Hall of Oakland, and invitations to attend are to be extended to Col. L. L. Cooper of Augusta, and staff, as also to some of the local camps. During the evening at invitation was received from Phil Sheridan Camp of Freeport, inviting the camp to attend a grand old fashioned ball to be given at that town Friday evening, October 30th.

American Mechanics Initiative.

At the regular meeting of Garfield Council No. 13, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening, four candidates were initiated into membership and several applications received for initiation at the next meeting.

The committee appointed to arrange for a supper have arranged for an oyster supper and entertainment, which will be given Tuesday evening November 3.

The members of the council have made application for admission to the side degree and the same will be conferred upon them at the next meeting.

The by-laws of the order have been amended of late so that the quarterly elections have been done away with, and the elections will be held semi-annually, the next one to occur in December.

OVERCOATS.

Kinds That We Are Proud Of.

CARR'S triple warp, English Melton, PATEN Beaver, Kersey finished. Full silk or lasting lined, ask your tailor if he knows of any better goods for stylish, durable Overcoats.

Maybe he don't keep it, few do. It's too high cost even for many custom tailors. And yet we have Overcoats—ready made—from these celebrated goods, and while they last you can buy one for $20.
